Hong Kong - June 27, 2011 – Arnhold & Co., Ltd celebrated the launch of Numi, the smart toilet designed by the global bath design and technology leader KOHLER, at the Numi Launch Party on June 24th. Top management from KOHLER Asia Pacific Ltd attended the event to introduce their most advanced toilet product to the market.

The Numi Launch Party was jointly hosted by Arnhold & Co., Ltd and KOHLER Asia Pacific Ltd at The American Club in Exchange Square II, Central. As the design of the Numi was inspired by New York and Miami, the theme of the party was American metropolitan lifestyle and the venue was accordingly decorated with street-art, palm trees and surfboards. Over 150 guests attended the event to view the latest KOHLER toilet which is equipped with state-of-art technology. Attendees included representation from Hong Kong's major property development firms, architectural firms and interior design firms.

The party was kicked off by Daniel Green, Managing Director of Arnhold & Co., Ltd, who delivered a welcome speech to the eager crowd. Larry Yuen, KOHLER Asia Pacific Region President, followed by introducing bathroom trends and the design concept of the Numi. After the speeches came the climax of the evening – the curtains on the stage were drawn and the Numi was unveiled to the excited crowd. The emcee then gave a comprehensive presentation on the impressive functions of Numi. The festive night was rounded off with a lucky draw which saw the winner took home their very own Numi toilet.

Numi and other KOHLER intelligent toilets and toilet seats are now available for viewing at Arnhold's showrooms.
